

What Does 2 Metres Look Like?

Two Golden Retrievers standing nose to tail

The average Golden Retriever has a body length of 37 to 42 inches. Two of these dogs should amount to just over 72 inches, or 6 feet.

A man wearing a top hat

A man of average height stands at 5 feet 9 inches tall - if that man wears a President Abraham Lincoln top hat, he'd be just over the distance we're advised to keep from others.

A sofa

A standard three-seat sofa can be up to 6 feet long -- which means that you and the person sitting on the other end of it probably aren't far away enough from each other.

A moose's antlers

A moose grows to be between 5 and 6.5 feet tall on average. That height doesn't include its antlers, which can measure 6 feet across, according to National Geographic.

A door

A door should be relatively easy to find when questioning whether you and your friend should move farther apart. Six feet is a little shorter than the average modern door, which runs from 78 to 80 inches.

Stephen Merchant lying across the pavement in BBC's Big Night In.

